PORTUGAL JOINS FRAY.
London, October 14.—A Central News dispatch from Madrid says it is reported from Lisbon that Portugal has declared war against Germany. The message which lacks official confirmation, is published in Madrid with all reserve.

RUSSIANS LOSE LEMBERG.
London, October 14.—A dispatch from the Hague says the Austrian legation announces that the Russians have evacuated Lemberg, Galicia, after a fierce fight.

GERMANS SWARMING.
The Hague, October 14.—A special dispatch to a newspaper here says that no fewer than 50,000 Germans are in Ghent. Many of them are leaving in the direction of Bruges. A German officer is quoted in this dispatch as saying that Ostend was the objective of the German advance.

QUITTING PORTUGAL.
London, October 14.—Cabling from Lisbon, the correspondent of the Central News says it is reported that the German minister to Portugal, and other Germans residing in Lisbon, are about to leave for Madrid. As a result of cabinet meetings and conferences between the leaders of the various Portuguese parties, and the president of the republic, the correspondent continues, it has been resolved to convoke congress October 16, in order to pass a vote for the mobilization of Portuguese troops.

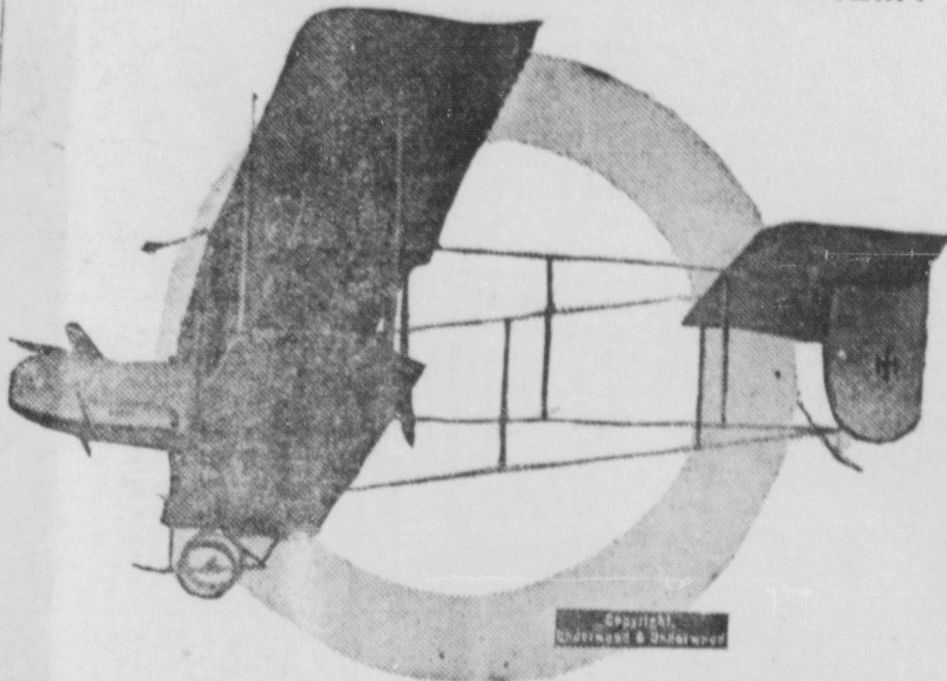

almost to the gates of Paris. With most of Belgium already occupied there is nothing that can stop the invaders reaching the coast and remaining there, at least temporarily, unless the British naval guns are able to render tenure impossible. The length of their stay at the popular seaside resort, should they seize Ostend will, of course, depend upon the outcome of the great battle now understood to be opening near the frontier, separating the provinces of West Flanders and Hainaut from the French department of the Nord. Beyond an unconfirmed report of fighting in the direction of Zeebrugge, a coast town 15 miles northeast of Ostend, there is no further news of the German advance in this vicinity.

Further south there is reason to believe that the left wing of the allies has been strongly reinforced and confirmation of this is found in the statement in the latest report from General Joffre, the French commander in chief, that the offensive against the Germans has been resumed in that part of the line of battle. In order to strengthen his forces in this vicinity General von Kluck has thrown an entire army corps into Lille. This manufacturing city has once before been in German hands and it has been within the German lines since an early stage of hostilities. Its occupation today does not seem to be seriously opposed. In fact it is explained here that it could not have been otherwise without disarranging the allies' line.

According to observers in London the Germans have been particularly anxious to reach Amiens, and thus secure control of the railroads to the north and to the south, but according to a French official announcement, the allies have checked their movement in this direction and have made a marked advance where the principal German effort centered.

The intermingling of the armies along a front of hundreds of miles appears today to be as chaotic as is the news concerning the operations furnished by the intelligence departments of the different heads. The French armies are declared to be gaining ground at Barry-Au-Bac, northwest of Rheims, and at Souain, on the east side of the cathedral city, while at least one portion of the German army is still stoutly holding its position between them on the plains of the Marne. Again, further to the east the French occupy Apremont in the Forest of Argonne, well to the northwest of Verdun, and Verdun is the position which the army under the German Crown Prince has for so long been trying to reduce. To the east of the position of the Crown Prince, the French are said to be pushing toward Metz. It is reported that in order to improve the Crown Prince's chances of reducing Verdun, some of the siege guns released from Antwerp are now on the way to join him. There is hope in London today that the anniversary of the battle of Jena, in which the French gained a victory over the Prussians and Saxons just 108 years ago today, may be celebrated along both battle fronts by events recalling this great and decisive struggle, but whatever the outcome, only the briefest reports are received on what is now transpiring in Belgium, in France and in Russian Poland. The latest French official communication declares there is nothing to report except a notable advance in the region of Barry-Au-Bac, while Petrograd gives out the cryptic statement that warlike operations continue to develop along the Vistula and San rivers, as far as Przemyśl, and further south as far as the Dnieper. A great battle along this front may even now be under way and in any event it cannot be long postponed.

Vienna reports that the Austrian offensive continues successful, north and south of Przemyśl, and that Jaroslau has been reoccupied by the Austrians. A dispatch from Nish, Serbia, relates that Austria has concentrated, on the banks of the Drina, the greatest army yet sent against Serbia as a final and supreme effort to crush that country. Fierce skirmishes already have been reported between outposts and a big battle is said to be imminent.

The Belgian government has now been re-established at Havre, France. A Petrograd dispatch says it is believed there that a great battle between the Russians and the Austro-German forces, is being waged along the Vistula river at points not revealed. The Germans made an aeroplane attack on Nancy, on Tuesday hitting a railroad train and injuring three persons. It is reported from here that the Germans are preparing to attack the French city of Belfort. The former German cruisers Breslau and Goben, which were sold to Turkey, are said to have appeared in the Black Sea. The British and American consuls at Constantinople have requested the women of the Embassy to leave on Monday according to a dispatch from Amsterdam. A report says that General Marcol, one of the best known of the French generals, has been killed near Arris in the fighting.

It is claimed that all efforts of General von Kluck to smash the Allies' left have been repulsed. In the Baltic the German fleet is showing unusual activity. Submarines or a torpedo boat, according to the Berlin announcements, recently sunk a Russian cruiser at a point distant two days' steaming from their base. And a great German squadron flying the flag of Prince Henry of Prussia is today reported cruising about the Aland Islands. The ferment over the question of neutrality of the countries of southeastern Europe, is increasing everywhere. An exception is found in case of Italy, where discussion has been checked while the country awaits news from the sick bed of its foreign minister. In England the controversy over descending of naval reserves into Antwerp is confined to the press and public, the authorities having made no reply to criticism. Their reserves were sent too late and in inadequate numbers. It is understood here that the bombardment of Tsing-Tau by the Japanese will begin Saturday, October 17.

Berlin, via Wireless Oct. 14.—The news from Antwerp was received last evening. It is commonly believed here that the army will now soon be able to force the French lines.

Emperor William personally telephoned news of Antwerp's fall to the Empress. It is officially stated that the bomb thrown by British airmen on Dusseldorf, caused comparatively no damage. King Albert of Belgium, in order to avoid useless bloodshed, is said here to have intended to surrender Antwerp, but was prevented by British who led the defense. The British it is said, destroyed 32 merchant steamers and 22 German Rhine river vessels lying in the harbor at Antwerp. This act is described here as a wanton destruction justified by no military measure, in the interest of the French. An official telegraphic agency of Petrograd admits that the Russians suffered great losses in men and guns during the fighting in September in Austria-Hungary.

The German papers consider the fall of Antwerp as a British defeat, as the British spurred the reluctant Belgians to continue the resistance.

NO WHEAT FLOUR IN HOLLAND

By Associated Press.

Amsterdam, October 14.—A scarcity of wheat flour is felt in Holland. At a meeting last Saturday the bankers of Velsen decided to bake rye bread only. The Netherlands produce very little wheat, rye and barley being the principal cereal crops. Due to the fact that during the last four weeks no wheat has been imported, owing to the rigorous enforcement of the contraband by the British and French cruisers, the supply of wheat is nearly exhausted.

GERMANS FALL BEFORE FRENCH

By Associated Press.

London, October 14.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Ostend, under date of October 11, says:

"Following violent engagements near Quatrecht and Melle, more than 600 Germans were killed and a large number of others wounded. French marine fusiliers charged with bayonets and took 400 German prisoners. The enemy was obliged to retire. The battle began again this morning in the neighborhood of Lyde."

TROUBLE BREWING

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., October 14.—After consultation with the Attorney General's department today, S. A. Hoskins, chairman of the State Civil Service commission, said there is no doubt that the Republican state organization violated the state civil service law if it sent letters soliciting campaign contributions to state employees under civil service.

KANAWHA UNDER PROBE

By Associated Press.

Washington, October 14.—In compliance with a resolution of the Senate the Interstate Commerce Commission today instituted an investigation into the operations of the Little Kanawha Railroad company, which operates a railway traversing the valley of the Little Kanawha in West Virginia.

The Senate desires to ascertain "whether or not the control of the stock is in the hands of any combination of railroads or of any trust or syndicate controlled by railroads engaged in interstate commerce and whether or not the railroad is being held for any purpose other than as a legitimate branch of commerce, and whether it is being held to tie up and prevent the development of the Little Kanawha Valley Railroad."

A preliminary inquiry will be begun at once and at a time yet to be fixed. Public hearing probably will be held.

GERMANS MOVING AGAINST OSTEND

All Belgium Now Overrun By the Kaiser's Forces.

FRENCH PORTS TO BE ATTACKED

Belgian Government Transferred From Ostend to Havre, France. Where Affairs of State Will Be Carried On—French Admit Capture of Lille, but Claim Successes Elsewhere Along the Battle Front.

London, Oct. 14.—Headquarters of the Belgian government has been transferred to Havre, France. With the exception of King Albert, who remains at the head of the Belgian army, and the minister of war, the members of the cabinet, with the other government officials and the diplomatic corps, left Ostend by steamer for the French port, where they will carry on the affairs of state. The American and Spanish ministers, both of whom are still at Brussels, are the only diplomatic representatives accredited to Belgium remaining in that country.

This final change followed quickly upon the German westward advance, which was begun immediately after the fall of Antwerp. Success in taking the chief port of Belgium opened the way for a new plan of campaign, which embraces the occupation of the whole of Belgium, including the coast town, and, if possible, some of the northern French ports.

In accordance with this new plan the German invaders have begun to sweep across northern Belgium. They occupied Ghent without opposition and are now said to be well advanced toward Bruges on their way to Ostend. They probably will meet with strong opposition before they reach Bruges, as the Belgian army is now being reorganized and has been reinforced.

The Germans are making a simultaneous westward advance in southern Belgium, while across the border in France a whole army corps has occupied Lille and cavalry has been seen as far west as Hazebrouck, which is on the railway leading to both Calais and Dunkirk.

French Take Offensive.

French forces have been sent to cut off, if possible, this attempt to reach the coast, and according to a French official communication have taken the offensive against the Germans. This movement, besides being a distinct menace to the allies' left wing, if successful would arouse great enthusiasm in Germany as an indication that the promised attack against England by airship and otherwise is about to be carried out.

Already bombs have been dropped on Ostend from aeroplanes which, once the Germans reach the coast, will be within easy striking distance of the British coast and ports and even London. This new movement promises to bring the battle of the Aisne, which has been in progress for a month, to a speedy conclusion.

The Germans, although they have brought many reinforcements from Germany and can now use at least a part of the troops which participated in the siege of Antwerp, are known to have withdrawn many troops from their front along the Aisne to reinforce the right wing, where they have been striking hard at the allies' left.

These attacks apparently have met with little success, for the French claim to have made marked progress between Arras and Albert. At the same time the withdrawal from the center of the German troops engaged has enabled the allies to make advances in the Berry-Au-Bac district, to the northwest of Rheims, and also toward Souain, west of the Argonne and north of Malancourt, between the Argonne and the Meuse.

RUSSIANS PLAN TO EVACUATE WARSAW

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Russians intend to evacuate Warsaw, it is believed here, following advices from the American consul at the capital of Russian Poland. The British government has asked the American consul at Warsaw to take over British interests in the event that the town is captured by the Germans.

RUSSIANS ARE FORCED BACKWARD

Teutonic Allies Successful in Poland and Galicia.

London, Oct. 14.—Official announcements from Vienna and Berlin state that the Germans and Austro-Hungarians are now in possession of all of Russian Poland which lies west of the Vistula river.

The official Berlin statement says that the Russians have been swept back to the Vistula river, and the only point held by them in this district is Warsaw, the capital, which is being threatened, and its fall is said to be imminent.

From The Hague comes the rumor sent from Berlin that Lemberg, in Galicia, has been recaptured by the rejuvenated Austro-Hungarian army, and from Vienna comes official word that Przemysl has been relieved and that the Russian armies operating in Galicia have been driven back to the San river.

BELGIAN NATION IS NOW IN EXILE

London, Oct. 14.—The tragedy of Belgium is complete. The nation is in exile. Up to the fall of Antwerp the refugees were mostly poor peasants. Since then the exodus of the whole population has been completed by the flight of people who were once rich, but who have now joined the common stream of the penniless and wretched of every class and nation. They are now among the 40,000 who fled to England, 12,000 of whom have survived since last Friday.

PRZEMYSL RELIEVED

Manchester, Vt., Oct. 14.—Ambassador Dumba of Austria-Hungary has received the following official communication by wireless: "After victorious engagements our forces have reached the San river, and the relief of Przemysl is now complete. The remaining hostile forces north and south of the fortress were attacked by us. Jaraslau and Lezaksk, both on the San river, are now in our hands, and strong Russian columns are retreating from Sienawa, on the San. East of Chrow and south of Przemysl our advance is also progressing. Strong Russian forces attempting to cross the Vistula south of Ivagorod, in Russian Poland, have been repulsed."

Health First

In buying food articles we must consider several things—economy, results, convenience, reliability; but the most important is Health.

Health means everything. If one gets cheated in buying dresses, shoes or bonnets it is provoking, but the harm is chiefly loss of money. In buying food articles, if imitations or poor stuffs are supplied, there is a loss of money and probably an injury to health also; and good health is beyond price.

Remember these facts when buying baking powder.

SIMPLY BREATHE IT

That's the Way You Use Hyomei, the Safe Catarrh Remedy.

The most pleasant, easiest, harmless, and the really sensible method for the cure of catarrh is Hyomei, which can be had from any drug store. Just put twenty drops of the liquid in the small inhaler that comes with every complete outfit—then breathe it. A few minutes' use almost instantly clears the head and stops that annoying sniffing.

When using Hyomei every particle of air that enters the breathing organs is charged with an antiseptic, healing balsam that destroys the catarrh germs, stops the unclean discharges from the nose, relieves the irritation and quickly heals the sore and inflamed tissues. The first day's use of Hyomei will show a decided improvement no matter how distressing the trouble.

Catarrh, which usually begins with a neglected cold, often becomes a very serious ailment, so don't wait but start using Hyomei today—it is inexpensive and T. F. Brown always sells it on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan.

BOMB EXPLODES IN A CATHEDRAL

New York, Oct. 14.—A bomb planted by some unknown person in St. Patrick's cathedral, in Fifth avenue, exploded with a terrific detonation. Several candlesticks on altars in the church fell to the floor. No one was injured. The force of the explosion seemed to be downward, the dynamite, for that presumably is what was in the bomb, gouging a hole about three feet in diameter in the stone flags of the floor.

A Successful Life Ended

Thirty-five years ago A. S. Ballard, then a young man, entered the old Merchants and Farmers Bank of this city as an employee, in a position of only moderate importance.

Monday evening, having risen in his life work, to the Presidency of the Commercial Bank of this city, Mr. Ballard answered the final summons.

During the thirty-five years he has been a resident of Washington, Mr. Ballard has always been identified with the banking business and at the time of his death occupied a position of responsibility and trust in the financial affairs of Washington second to no man.

He was a man of great ability and while that ability was demonstrated to his business associates at home and abroad by his success in banking and in business affairs generally, those who knew him well socially can testify to the wide scope of his natural ability which was by no means satisfied by the opportunities which the business world afforded. His friends and associates knew him to be a great reader and student of economic and industrial questions—a man capable of discussing intelligently almost any question which might arise.

He was one of the men who made a conspicuous success of his work in life, lived long enough to attain his ambition and surrendered only to the inevitable.

Mr. Ballard will be missed in the business and social life of Washington, but his success in almost every endeavor in the field of business should be a consolation to his relatives and friends and lesson to the younger generations.

While Mr. Ballard's career in the business world of Washington was in no sense spectacular, it was none the less complete. He was thorough and correct and the success which he achieved came slowly but certainly and was substantial in every way.

The men who almost daily sought and obtained the advice of Mr. Ballard on business affairs have sustained a tremendous loss and his place in the community will be difficult to fill.

The World's Series Results

That baseball "form" is about the most unreliable thing in the world has just been abundantly proven by the sweeping victory which the Boston Braves won at the expense of the Philadelphia Athletics.

There were, comparatively, only a few baseball enthusiasts in the country who did not hope that the Boston team would be the winners of the highest honors in baseball, but there was only an infinitesimally small number of those enthusiasts who figured that Boston would be able to humble the mighty Mackmen.

The experts of the game, the men who keep the records day by day of all the clubs and all the players were almost in the opinion that the club representing the city of beans and culture didn't have a ghost of a chance to win.

Those who believed that the mighty Athletics would be defeated in four straight games could be counted on the fingers of your hands and were considered baseball mad.

But, as is so often the case in baseball, the figures and opinions based on past performances went all to the bad and the Athletics were defeated in the most decisive manner possible.

The splendid uncertainty and the absolute honesty which makes the great game so popular with the people was never more in evidence than in the series just closed.

The supposedly invincible club proved an easy victim for the club which was not supposed to have a chance.

In the great game Monday when in the presence of nearly forty thousand spectators, the contest dragged on into extra innings and when the lengthening and deepening shadows of evening warranted stopping the contest and making another game necessary, the umpires forced the players on to a conclusion. Hat that contest been stopped it meant at least fifty thousand dollars more in receipts to players and club owners, but no one showed an inclination to give the commercial end a thought.

In that very act the honesty of baseball was proven beyond question.

The fickle, yet generous enthusiasts of baseball have transferred their affections to the new kings of the diamond, yet withal they retain a deep affection for the great club three times winner of the highest honors in baseball which went down to honorable defeat before that marvelous new team of champions which since early July has dashed from the bottom rounds of the baseball ladder to the highest place in the world of baseball.

Baseballdom today honors the new world's champions for what they are and the old champions for what they have been.

POOR OLD FARMER.

The Great White Way with joy is rife
Where cut-ups congregate at night.
The farmer leads a quiet life,
An early bed is his delight.
(Poor old farmer!)

The urbanite sleeps late. You see
His social duties makes him do it.
The farmer snores till half-past three,
Then beats the morning sunrise to it.
(Poor old farmer!)

The city man wears nice kid gloves
And takes a taxi round the block.
While all day long the farmer shoves
A plow, or reaps, or feeds the stock.
(Poor old farmer!)

The city man, he rarely stops
To think about the rainy day.
The farmer gathers in the crops
And salts three billion bucks away.
(Poor old farmer!)

The German Army Step.

In the German army great attention is paid to physical exercises. At first the recruit is taught to throw back his arms violently, expand his chest, lower and elevate the body by bending the knees and many similar movements calculated to strengthen and render supple all the muscles of the body. Then comes practice in marching, and here the famous "goose along step" comes into evidence. A whole squad of recruits may be seen marching across the drill ground, rising on one foot and balancing there with the other leg extended until the order comes. Then down comes the elevated foot in as long a step as possible and up with the other. This long step is said to make the Germans excellent marchers.

TOBACCO LIKE GOLD DUST TO THE SOLDIER

By Associated Press.

London, October 14.—Messages from the front saying that tobacco is like gold dust to the soldier, has so touched the sympathy of smokers that mail to the continent is now filled with cigarettes, pipes and plug cut. Societies are formed for the collection of tobacco in its various forms and boxes for such contributions are now prominent on hotel desks and club tables and other places frequented by smokers.

While all classes are helping Tommy Atkins to get his smoke, temperance societies are fervently urging him not to drink. These societies want the men to volunteer to do what was made compulsory in the Russian army by the Czar's anti-vodka decree. One well-known Anglican bishop has asked the men to pledge themselves to refrain from drinking even beer or light wines, although they may know the water to be polluted. The bishop himself is not joining the expeditionary force.

HOG TYING A LONGHORN.

Catching, Tripping and Roping a Steer In Twenty-seven Seconds.

To rope, "bust" and "hog tie" a wild Texas longhorn single handed in two minutes is a sport which represents the daily work of the range. Men of quick eye and steady nerve each start their fifty feet behind the longhorn, which may jump the arena fence like a deer and again and again dodge when it bears the first swish of the rope. The rope often breaks on the tautening, or the saddle may slip, as in the case of Bill Mahaffey, who landed on his head with foot caught in the stirrup and but for the splendidly trained cow pony might have been dragged and killed.

There goes Cuba Crutchfield! He overtakes his sister. Swish, swish! His lariat zips through the air—a beautiful throw over the horns. Then the cow pony braces, and the rope tightens like a harp string. Watching, anticipating every move of his horned adversary, the cowboy now circles the animal so that the rope is brought from the horns around the hind legs. A word, and the knowing pony makes a sudden start. Thud, and the steer is tripped or "busted." The rope tautens, and the rider is already running afoot with a short cord in hand toward the steer, depending for his own safety on his trained cow pony to hold that rope taut and the steer in position. With marvelous dexterity he "hog ties" with a number of half hitches looped about the hind feet and one forefoot of the steer. The man stands erect, raises both arms in the air, and Crutchfield has not only won the steer roping championship, but has ridden down, roped, thrown and hog tied a steer in twenty-seven seconds, within six seconds of the best record ever made.—World's Work.

Chalmers "Light Six"

$1650

If you were an automobile expert and had thoroughly examined this car before we announced the price you would have unhesitatingly judged it a big value at $2,000.

The Biggest Motor Car Buy of Any Year

In our automobile experience we have never seen any year in which one car stood as far above its price class as the 1915 Chalmers "Light Six" does this year.

All things considered, we honestly can say this new Chalmers "Light Six" gives greater dollar for dollar value in motor essentials than any car we have ever sold.

We know that it is simply impossible for you to get the full value of these statements merely by reading them. That is why we are anxious to have you take the Chalmers "Real Test" Ride over every sort of roads. You can't doubt the proof then.

Varicose Veins.

As is generally known, a varicose vein is one which is pathologically and permanently enlarged. Usually this condition occurs in the veins of the legs, though any vein may be affected in this way. Not only are varicose veins enlarged in width, but they are also enlarged in length, with the result that they assume very tortuous or sinuous courses. The symptoms of varix are usually relieved by raising the limb. The superficially enlarged veins are readily recognized. One of the worst effects is hemorrhage from the bursting of an affected vein. The treatment of this accident is most simple, yet through ignorance many lives are lost in this way. The patient should at once lie down, and the limb should be raised. A pad should be fixed over the wounded vein by a bandage or handkerchief, and the limb should then be bandaged from the toes upward. As to the treatment of varicose veins, there is no doubt that in all bad cases excision by a surgeon is the most satisfactory. Milder cases should be treated by supporting the veins by a well fitting elastic stocking or properly applied rubber bandage.

SECRETARY PATTON SUBMITS MONTHLY FINANCIAL REPORT

Institution is Being Maintained on Less Than Budget Provides—Pleasing Membership Report—Allowance Authorized for Fitting Out Junior Department.

That secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Walter Patton, is succeeding in his determined effort to cut the expense account of the institution, and to bring the expense total within the Association budget allowance, is borne out again in his report of the September receipts and expenditures and it is a repetition of the August report which marked the first of his incumbency.

While the receipt account was $4.89 below the receipt budget this amount was amply covered by the difference of $34.39 between the actual expenditures and the expense allowance. Secretary Patton submitted his report at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors this week. It is shown in full below.

A pleasing report from the membership committee at this meeting showed that during the month of September, 34 new members had been added and these increase the roll to 224 members.

An important feature of the meeting was an allowance authorized for the repairing and furnishing of the Junior department and the actual work has already begun. This work includes the painting of the rooms set aside in the building for this department and the installing of game tables and other necessary equipment most of which the Association has on hand.

BEGINS AT ONCE TO BUILD SPLENDID BUSINESS BLOCK

Within the next few days the work of rebuilding the block formerly occupied by the Cox & Son livery barn will be well under way, and at the present time workmen are busy clearing away the debris of the burned structure to make room for a two-story business block, 50 by 148 feet, to be constructed of brick and steel, and when finished to be semi-fire-proof.

Mr. Cox has made arrangements for erecting new walls wherever needed in the present brick walls, and contractors have expressed the belief that only a small portion of the old walls will be found unsound.

The walls will be built entirely of brick, and huge steel girders will span the 50 feet from wall to wall, giving an ideal business room, which may easily be converted into two business rooms if occasion warrants.

The block will, in all probability, be used for business purposes other than for a livery barn, and will be constructed accordingly so that it will offer a splendid location for some large business concern.

It is the intention of Mr. Cox to push the work rapidly forward, so that the walls may be finished and the building be under roof before the disagreeable weather sets in.

POST NAILS YOUNG FORGER

Youth Who Represented Himself as Son of Judge Festus Walters, of Pickaway County, Is Landed in Toils After Passing $15 Forged Check on Congressman Post—Man Was From West Virginia.

Associated press dispatches from Washington, D. C., give the following account of the arrest of a forger who claimed to be from Pickaway county, and who had forged a check upon Congressman Post:

"Representative J. D. Post, of Washington, D. C., Ohio, today took a hand in the arrest of a man said to be masquerading as Ralph Walters, of Circleville, Ohio, for whom Post had cashed a check for $15 on August 28, which was returned with the notation, 'Signature not genuine.'"

"After being arrested the man said his name was William H. Dewitt, of Charleston, W. Va. He made his alleged touch cleverly. Representative Post says that he represented himself to be a son of Judge Festus Walters, of Circleville, and appeared to be so completely familiar with local affairs that Post accepted him as the genuine Ralph Walters and obtained $15 in money for him.

"When the check was returned, with the startling notation from the bank, Post wrote to Judge Walters, who promptly denounced the check writer as an impostor. Post kissed the $15 goodbye. Yesterday the pseudo Walters approached Representative Claypool, of Chillicothe, but Claypool, being a canny person who knows the value of a dollar, ducked the touch.

"He told his tale to Post, and today, when the latter saw the man in the House lobby, he promptly collared him with the aid of a policeman. The prisoner will be arraigned in the Police court tomorrow morning."

RED AND BLUE MAKE BLACK.

But That Result Depends Upon the Colors Being Perfect.

We are told by the textbooks on light that red glass is red because it absorbs all the other rays of the spectrum and transmits only the red; that blue glass absorbs all except the blue, and so with glass of every other color. The fact that red glass superimposed upon blue glass transmits violet light seems in contradiction of this teaching, according to which the red glass would absorb all the blue and green light and transmit nothing but red to the blue, which, in turn, would absorb all the red.

The reason for the violet light is that no red glass made is of sufficiently pure color to absorb all the blue and green waves and no blue glass is sufficiently pure to absorb all the red and orange rays. So the red transmits a certain amount of the blue and green and the blue transmits a certain amount of the red and orange. Enough of the blue rays come through the red glass and enough of the red rays through the blue glass to make a nice violet or purple when the glasses are superimposed.

The Scientific American describes a simple experiment by which you may prove the truth of the theory. Dissolve red aniline in amyl alcohol and copper chloride in dilute hydrochloric acid. The one will give you a transparent red liquid that will actually absorb all the rays but the red; the other will give you a transparent greenish blue liquid that will absorb all the red and orange rays. If you mix the two liquids and shake them up they will turn black. But they will not stay mixed and will quickly separate again.

More Than 100 Persons Said to Have Been Fleeced by Man Who Worked Subscriptions to Poultry Herald, at Local Fair—Claim Made That Company Brands Man a Fake.

It is claimed that more than 100 Fayette farmers who subscribed for the "Poultry Herald" from a young man who represented himself as the agent of the company and worked at the Fayette county fair, have failed to obtain their papers, and that some who have written to the Poultry Herald, which is published in St. Paul, Minn., have received replies stating that they know nothing of the man, and that he was a fake.

The man is said to have used a receipt book which to all appearances was similar to those used by the company, but instead of signing his entire name, he merely placed initials on the receipt. The man's name is not known.

Mr. D. E. Mershon, who was superintendent of the poultry department, states that the man obtained more than 100 "subscriptions" at 25 cents each, and it is alleged that the money went into the man's pockets.

This is another warning to citizens in general to beware of persons representing themselves as agents of various publications, unless the man can produce unmistakable proof of their connection with the publications.

WELL KNOWN PIANO DEALER IS SOMMONED

Mr. James A. Smalley, aged 46, well known piano dealer of this city, passed away at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night, at his home on Yeoman street, after a lengthy illness due to a complication of diseases.

Mr. Smalley became critically ill last May, and since that time has been growing weaker as the ravages of the diseases progressed. He had a great many friends in this city, and besides the sorrowing widow, leaves a large number of relatives in Fayette and adjoining counties.

Mr. Smalley was a member of the Odd Fellows and Junior Order of United American Mechanics. He was a lover of the best literature, and was a student of more than average ability.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Thursday morning at

ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Arthur Cunningham, well known colored man of this city, had a very narrow escape from being ground to pieces under a D. T. & I. freight train while crossing the tracks in the local yards late Tuesday evening.

Cunningham had started across the track when he noticed a train backing rapidly toward him, but thought the train on another track, and did not realize his mistake until the train was upon him.

In attempting to leap from in front of the approaching train, Cunningham slipped and the train struck him. He had the presence of mind to grasp a rod on the car and thus saved himself from being ground and crushed to death under the trucks. He was dragged for quite a little distance before the train was brought to a stop, but beyond cuts and bruises was not badly injured.

Cunningham is one of a number of persons who have had very narrow escapes from death in a similar manner in the D. T. & I. yards in this city.

Within the next few days the work of rebuilding the block formerly occupied by the Cox & Son livery barn will be well under way, and at the present time workmen are busy clearing away the debris of the burned structure to make room for a two-story business block, 50 by 148 feet, to be constructed of brick and steel, and when finished to be semi-fire-proof.

Mr. Cox has made arrangements for erecting new walls wherever needed in the present brick walls, and contractors have expressed the belief that only a small portion of the old walls will be found unsound.

The walls will be built entirely of brick, and huge steel girders will span the 50 feet from wall to wall, giving an ideal business room, which may easily be converted into two business rooms if occasion warrants.

The block will, in all probability, be used for business purposes other than for a livery barn, and will be constructed accordingly so that it will offer a splendid location for some large business concern.

It is the intention of Mr. Cox to push the work rapidly forward, so that the walls may be finished and the building be under roof before the disagreeable weather sets in.

POST NAILS YOUNG FORGER

Youth Who Represented Himself as Son of Judge Festus Walters, of Pickaway County, Is Landed in Toils After Passing $15 Forged Check on Congressman Post—Man Was From West Virginia.

Associated press dispatches from Washington, D. C., give the following account of the arrest of a forger who claimed to be from Pickaway county, and who had forged a check upon Congressman Post:

"Representative J. D. Post, of Washington C. H., Ohio, today took a hand in the arrest of a man said to be masquerading as Ralph Walters, of Circleville, Ohio, for whom Post had cashed a check for $15 on August 28, which was returned with the notation, 'Signature not genuine.'"

"After being arrested the man said his name was William H. Dewitt, of Charleston, W. Va. He made his alleged touch cleverly. Representative Post says that he represented himself to be a son of Judge Festus Walters, of Circleville, and appeared to be so completely familiar with local affairs that Post accepted him as the genuine Ralph Walters and obtained $15 in money for him.

"When the check was returned, with the startling notation from the bank, Post wrote to Judge Walters, who promptly denounced the check writer as an impostor. Post kissed the $15 goodbye. Yesterday the pseudo Walters approached Representative Claypool, of Chillicothe, but Claypool, being a canny person who knows the value of a dollar, ducked the touch.

"He told his tale to Post, and today, when the latter saw the man in the House lobby, he promptly collared him with the aid of a policeman. The prisoner will be arraigned in the Police court tomorrow morning."

RED AND BLUE MAKE BLACK.

But That Result Depends Upon the Colors Being Perfect.

We are told by the textbooks on light that red glass is red because it absorbs all the other rays of the spectrum and transmits only the red; that blue glass absorbs all except the blue, and so with glass of every other color. The fact that red glass superimposed upon blue glass transmits violet light seems in contradiction of this teaching, according to which the red glass would absorb all the blue and green light and transmit nothing but red to the blue, which, in turn, would absorb all the red.

The reason for the violet light is that no red glass made is of sufficiently pure color to absorb all the blue and green waves and no blue glass is sufficiently pure to absorb all the red and orange rays. So the red transmits a certain amount of the blue and green and the blue transmits a certain amount of the red and orange. Enough of the blue rays come through the red glass and enough of the red rays through the blue glass to make a nice violet or purple when the glasses are superimposed.

The Scientific American describes a simple experiment by which you may prove the truth of the theory. Dissolve red aniline in amyl alcohol and copper chloride in dilute hydrochloric acid. The one will give you a transparent red liquid that will actually absorb all the rays but the red; the other will give you a transparent greenish blue liquid that will absorb all the red and orange rays. If you mix the two liquids and shake them up they will turn black. But they will not stay mixed and will quickly separate again.

CLAIM AGENT POCKETED COIN

More Than 100 Persons Said to Have Been Fleeced by Man Who Worked Subscriptions to Poultry Herald, at Local Fair—Claim Made That Company Brands Man a Fake.

It is claimed that more than 100 Fayette farmers who subscribed for the "Poultry Herald" from a young man who represented himself as the agent of the company and worked at the Fayette county fair, have failed to obtain their papers, and that some who have written to the Poultry Herald, which is published in St. Paul, Minn., have received replies stating that they know nothing of the man, and that he was a fake.

The man is said to have used a receipt book which to all appearances was similar to those used by the company, but instead of signing his entire name, he merely placed initials on the receipt. The man's name is not known.

Mr. D. E. Mershon, who was superintendent of the poultry department, states that the man obtained more than 100 "subscriptions" at 25 cents each, and it is alleged that the money went into the man's pockets.

This is another warning to citizens in general to beware of persons representing themselves as agents of various publications, unless the man can produce unmistakable proof of their connection with the publications.

WELL KNOWN PIANO DEALER IS SUMMONED

Mr. James A. Smalley, aged 46, well known piano dealer of this city, passed away at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night, at his home on Yeoman street, after a lengthy illness due to a complication of diseases.

Mr. Smalley became critically ill last May, and since that time has been growing weaker as the ravages of the diseases progressed. He had a great many friends in this city, and besides the sorrowing widow, leaves a large number of relatives in Fayette and adjoining counties.

Mr. Smalley was a member of the Odd Fellows and Junior Order of United American Mechanics. He was a lover of the best literature, and was a student of more than average ability.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Thursday morning at ten o'clock, and burial will be made in the Greenfield cemetery. Rev. S. S. Forrest, of Urbana and Rev. E. A. Cush, of Milledgeville, will have charge of the funeral services.

ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Arthur Cunningham, well known colored man of this city, had a very narrow escape from being ground to pieces under a D. T. & I. freight train while crossing the tracks in the local yards late Tuesday evening.

Cunningham had started across the track when he noticed a train backing rapidly toward him, but thought the train on another track, and did not realize his mistake until the train was upon him.

In attempting to leap from in front of the approaching train, Cunningham slipped and the train struck him. He had the presence of mind to grasp a rod on the car and thus saved himself from being ground and crushed to death under the trucks. He was dragged for quite a little distance before the train was brought to a stop, but beyond cuts and bruises was not badly injured.

Cunningham is one of a number of persons who have had very narrow escapes from death in a similar manner in the D. T. & I. yards in this city.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must wash your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

YAQUI ATTACK IS PEPULSED

Naco, Ariz., Oct. 14.—Repulsed after an all night attack upon Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz., Governor Maytorena's Yaqui soldiers returned here and joined their chief in further attacking the garrison of Carranza troops holding Naco, Sonora. Again the town of Naco, Ariz., was under fire and rifle balls and fragmentary cannon shells sifted down on the little Arizona border town. As the fire grew heavier, the danger to the American troops guarding the line and American citizens became greater.

Responding to appeals from the people of this place, Governor Hunt ordered all National Guard captains to have their companies ready to proceed to Naco at a moment's notice.

BRYAN'S GIFT TO ENVOYS

Washington, Oct. 14.—A broad hint to the European belligerents to cease their fighting is contained in a present which Secretary of State Bryan will make to the twenty-nine ambassadors and ministers who have signed with him the Bryan peace treaties. Included in the number are the representatives here of Great Britain, France, Russia and Belgium, all of whom are at war.

Recalling the biblical text, "they shall beat their swords into plowshares," the secretary obtained from the war department a number of obsolete swords, the blades of which he had made into miniature plowshares. On them he had engraved the text quoted above. It is the secretary's hope that the plowshares will be always on the desks of the diplomats as paper weights and as perpetual reminders of "The Better Way."

LOSSES IN BATTLE.

Men Called "Missing" Are Not Always Dead or Wounded.

In accounts of battles one almost invariably reads of the dead, wounded and "missing." That the latter are not always among the dead or wounded, nor even among the prisoners taken by the enemy, is shown in this extract from General Horace Porter's "Campaigning With Grant."

"We learned something at Shiloh about the way in which reports of losses are sometimes exaggerated in battle. At the close of the first day's fight Sherman met a colonel of one of his regiments with only about a hundred of his soldiers in ranks and said to him, 'Why, where are your men?' The colonel cast his eyes sadly along the line, wiped a tear from his cheek and replied in a whimpering voice, 'We went in 800 strong and that's all that's left of us.' 'You don't tell me!' exclaimed Sherman, beginning to be deeply affected by the fearful carnage.

"Yes," said the colonel, 'the rebels appeared to have a special spite against us.' 'Sherman passed along some hours afterward when the commissary was issuing rations and found the colonel's men returning on the run from under the bank of the river, where they had taken shelter from the firing, and in a few minutes nearly all of the lost 700 had rejoined and were bolting coffee and eating a hearty meal with an appetite that showed they were still very much alive.'

African Colonies.

The African possessions and protectorates of the European powers now at war are more than three times as large as continental United States. They are more than three times as large as all of Europe now plunged in war and are eleven times larger than England, France, Germany and Belgium, which control them. The largest individual holder of African territory is France, with 3,812,000 square miles, more than 1,500,000 of which are the Sahara desert. England controls 3,618,245 square miles; Belgium, with Belgian Congo as its sole possession, 802,000 square miles and Germany 1,035,086 square miles—Argonaut.

THIS MAN INVENTED SHELL THAT MEANS "400 SQUARE YARDS OF SUDDEN DEATH"

This is M. Turpin, the Frenchman who invented "turpinite," the mysterious explosive that is said to have wrought such tremendous havoc with the Germans battling in France. Reports say that whole companies of German infantry have been found in their trenches "standing bolt upright and still holding their rifles in their lifeless hands in firing attitude as if suddenly petrified." In some cases pipes were still held between the teeth. Many of the dead bore no marks; they had either been killed by the shock or by the noxious fumes. Friends of the inventor claimed that a single shell weighing fifty-six pounds would kill "every living thing within a space of 400 square yards." Later reports said that the use of the shell had been discontinued by the French army because of its danger to those handling it.

WILL SHOOT 25 MILES

Amsterdam, Oct. 14.—Reports are current in Berlin that the Krupps have completed some enormously heavy guns of a caliber and range never before attempted, and that a large fleet of Zeppelins, according to some reports numbering eighty or more, is being collected near Kiel, awaiting a favorable opportunity to sail for England, according to the statement of a British newspaper man who has just returned from Berlin to Amsterdam. German artillery officers say the new Krupp guns have a range of about twenty-five miles and probably are destined for use at some channel port. The aeroplane factories in Germany are working day and night supplying machines, and 200 aviators are qualifying for military service every week.

An Ancient Builder.

Probably the greatest builder the world ever had was Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon from 604 to 561 B. C. There is scarcely a ruin in Babylonia which does not show traces of his work. Nearly everywhere in Mesopotamia and even in Persia are found bricks bearing his name. He delighted in restoring the old temples. He surrounded defenseless cities with walls and moats. He confined the rivers to their courses with huge brick embankments. Shortly before his time Babylon was completely destroyed, but he rebuilt and enlarged the city.

TINY MORESNET.

The Little Republic That Lies Hidden on Belgium's Border.

If there is an advantage in a country being large there is also an advantage in its being small, provided it is small enough. The republic of Moresnet, also called Klemis and sometimes Altenberg, owes its independent existence to the fact that it is so small that the European powers don't even take the trouble to annex it.

Moresnet lies on the border of Belgium and Prussia between Verviers and Aix-la-Chapelle. It has an area of 1,400 acres and a population of 3,500. At one time the community belonged to Austria. It was later annexed by France and made the subject of quite a little dispute between Napoleon I. and the Prussians. But at the congress of Vienna in 1815 nobody seems to have thought of Moresnet, and to this day the country is an independent republic. For a time there was some dispute between Belgium and Prussia about the territory on account of the rich cadmium mine located there. But even this is now extinct.

The republic has an administration of its own, composed of a burgomaster and ten members of a council. The burgomaster is both a Prussian and a Belgian subject. The inhabitants speak both German and French and decide individually whether they will perform military service for Prussia or for Belgium.

Moresnet has not yet been heard from in the present conflict.—Wall Street Journal

Insidious Persistence. "I understand that you have broken your engagement with Harold Jimkins," said one girl.

"We were never engaged," replied the other. "The trouble with Harold is that he is too grammatical."

"What has grammar to do with it?" "He took advantage of the fact that when I get excited I stammer. When he asked me to marry him I said 'No, no' and he immediately insisted that two negatives make an affirmative."—Washington Star.

FOR RELIEF OF PLANTERS

Washington, Oct. 14.—Senators from the cotton states have practically perfected the amendment which they will offer to the war revenue bill for the relief of the cotton planters. The amendment authorizes an issue of government bonds to the amount of $250,000,000, in denominations of from $5 to $100, to draw 4 per cent interest and to mature in three years. These bonds are to be given to the cotton growers in payment for cotton at a price not to exceed 10 cents per pound, leaving the farmer to dispose of the bonds in his own way. The amendment is designed to care for the surplus of the crop for 1914, which has estimated amounts to 5,000,000 bales, and to be carried over if necessary to the crops for 1916-17-18. Cotton production is to be taxed by the government at the rate of one-half of 1 per cent per pound to reimburse the government against any loss.

BEER AND SPIRITS TAX IS ADOPTED

Washington, Oct. 14.—The senate adopted the provision of the war revenue bill which taxes beer at the rate of $1.75 a barrel and imposes a 5 per cent tax on rectified spirits. The beer tax was adopted without the formality of a rollcall.

COLEMAN'S DEFENSE

Washington, Oct. 14.—That he had talked with newspaper representatives on his arrival in New York, but had not made the unneutral statements attributed to him in the newspapers, was declared by Captain Levert Coleman in a letter to Secretary Garrison explaining the interview with him which appeared last week. Secretary Garrison has asked Captain Coleman whether at the time of his landing last week he knew of the president's orders to army officials forbidding them to discuss the war in Europe. Action in Captain Coleman's case will depend largely upon whether he was aware of this order.

A WARTIME BLUFF

It Was Worked by Stonewall Jackson, and It Won.

HIS MOST IMPORTANT ORDER

It Was Given by the Cool Headed Confederate Commander to a Confused Federal Soldier, and It Was Promptly Obeyed—A Lucky Escape.

Perhaps the most important order that Stonewall Jackson ever issued—certainly the most vital to himself—is not in the official war records. The order was given in person by Jackson to a northern artillery officer as he stood in full uniform ready for battle beside his gun, and, stranger of all, was at once executed by him, with the result that the battle was lost by the Federal arms.

Jackson's action on this occasion furnishes a striking illustration of the value of a cool head and presence of mind in an emergency—on an important occasion when the entirely unexpected happens—at a time when wavering or indecision would result in disaster. That he was able instantly to grasp the situation and daringly master it is a tribute to his quickness of judgment and his courage.

It was on a spring morning in 1862, just before the battle of Port Republic. Jackson in advance of his troops, with only a single escort, galloped across the bridge over the Shenandoah river into the town, which stood on the east bank. Learning that the army of General Shields was still a good many miles away and confident that his own troops would be in possession long before the enemy, he rode to a residence at the farther end of the village, where he spent nearly an hour.

But meantime the energetic Shields—whom Jackson declared to be his most formidable opponent—had thrust forward a small, swift column to occupy Port Republic, seize the bridge and halt Jackson's advance. So rapidly did it move that it gained both objects without firing a shot. More than that, Jackson was a prisoner—if any one had known it!

Jackson, in utter ignorance of the disastrous change, mounted his horse and ambled down the main street to the bridge. What was his astonishment to see groups of soldiers—in blue—busily moving to and fro about the bridgehead and throwing up intrenchments and fortifications. Planted on a little knoll that commanded the bridge and its approaches was a formidable field gun.

Fortunately for Jackson, the recent campaigns up and down the valley had faded both blue and gray uniforms into a nondescript drab. As Jackson sat on his horse and watched the busy scene he formed his plan swiftly. He could not go back. He must cross that bridge. That was his only chance. It was the frowning field gun that he feared. He must put it out of commission long enough to get beyond its range. Throwing up his hand to attract attention, he shouted to the officer in command of the gun:

"What are you doing with that gun up there? I didn't order it there, and I don't want it there!" There were authority and petulance in his voice as he added, "Linger up and run it over on that knob over there!"

The officer at the gun, thinking that he had to deal with some superior officer recently arrived, hastened to obey without question, explaining in self defense that he had understood his orders otherwise.

Sitting on Little Sorrel while the Federal troops worked busily about him, Jackson calmly waited until the gun was lumbering off to its new position. Then he rode quietly across the bridge and up the other bank until he was well out of musket range. Then he turned, waved his hand to the astonished Federals, and, putting spurs to his horse, galloped away from the rain of bullets that pattered harmlessly in the rear.

Had he been captured the Confederate victory at Port Republic which he won a few hours later would not have happened. The able and energetic Shields would have defeated his troops, stunned by his loss.—Youth's Companion.

Palace and Hovel.

Probably in Constantinople, which has been described as the "city of hovels," there is a greater contrast between the public and private buildings than in any other city in the world. The streets are narrow, tortuous and dirty, and even the better class of private houses are mean in comparison with those of a similar class in other countries. On the other hand, the mosques and palaces are magnificent in size, design and materials of construction, most of them being of marble, white or gray. The seraglio is one of the finest buildings in Europe.

Often Happens So.

"I wonder," says old Pop Crabbe, "why it is that when you've stood around in a store for twenty minutes and finally given your order half a dozen clerks immediately rush up and ask if you've been waited on."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PANTHER AND BEAR.

A Vicious Battle to the Death With a Thrilling Climax.

"When my grandfather was a young man he used to hunt a great deal," says a writer in the American Magazine. "He had a brother living in Montana, and in the fall of 1858 he decided to go and spend the winter with this brother and hunt. One day his brother was telling about a large cave in the mountains where some panthers lived. He thought it would be a good chance to try to get one. So one morning a few days later he started out to find the cave. When he came in sight of it he didn't see any stir, so kept creeping closer.

"He finally came to a path; there seemed to be a lot of different tracks. He began looking for a place to hide and finally discovered a ledge and climbed up and sat down to rest. Suddenly he heard a sound of cracking brush. He got his rifle up ready when down the path came an old bear and three cubs; the little cubs were playing like kittens. The old bear walked up to the cave, sniffed a few times and went in. In a few minutes she came out with a little panther, killed it and gave it to the cubs. She repeated this three times, and every one she killed would scream and the old panther would answer away off in the woods, and each time nearer.

"After she had killed them all she cuffed the cubs and sent them up a tree. Then she began digging a hole in the ground and sniffing the air. In a few minutes the old panther screamed and it seemed just a little distance away. The old bear lay down on her back in the hole she had dug. She was ready for fight. The panther came straight for the bear. She gave one leap and struck on the bear. There was a fierce struggle, with screaming and snarling, and in less than ten minutes the bear was torn to fragments. The panther walked into the cave and came right out again and gave a scream that was bloodcurdling. Just then she saw the cubs. She gave a leap and brought one down and killed it, and went after the rest and killed them.

"She sniffed the air again and began coming toward my grandfather, who had been watching from the ledge above. He raised his rifle, took good aim and fired.

"That was the last he knew until he became conscious again, for he fainted as soon as he shot, but the panther was dead—he had hit her between the eyes.

"He didn't wait to pick up his lunch box, but went fast for home.

"He often says that is the most game he ever got with one bullet, but he wouldn't want to see it all over again."

Obliging Conductor.

The fussy lady had noticed the rude man sitting beside her in the street car had expostulated on the conductor, and that official came in to see what was wanted.

"Do you allow spitting in this car?" demanded the fussy lady.

"Well, no," replied the conductor.

"But you can come out on the platform if you want to, lady."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PANGGANGS OF MALAY.

Ruled by an Old Witch, They Are the Queerest People Known.

Ruled by a great enchantress and having no form of money, the Panggangs, a tribe in a mountainous jungle in the northern part of the Malay peninsula, is one of the queerest known to white men. The tribesmen are of a negroid type, whose social organization is that of a simple form of commonwealth and who are nomadic, wandering about from place to place in their dense jungles and forests.

Among them dwells a woman whose strange characteristics are strongly reminiscent of Haggard's famous "She." The woman is supposed to be a great enchantress. She is held in dread by the Panggangs. She lives alone in a bamboo hut, shaded by the leaves of the sacred ubang tree. Food is brought her daily by the oldest man or woman of the tribe.

The Panggangs are said to be a peaceable and honest people, and do not, among themselves, either fight or steal. They literally have no use for money for trading purposes, but if by chance they get money they bury it, so that they may use it in trading after death. After getting a supply of food, they do no work whatever until the supply is ended. They eat any wild creature.

These people do not seem to have any religion, but they have a queer belief in the transmigration of souls. In their country tigers are numerous, and they believe that sometimes their relatives, when they die, become changed into tigers.—Argonaut.

Richmond, Va., October 14.—Gov. Charles S. Hamlin, of the Federal Reserve, was the principal speaker today at the convention of the American Bankers' Association. Governor Hamlin told the bankers that he hoped to see the new system in operation in a short time and predicted that it would prove of immense advantage to the country.

The European war furnished Governor Hamlin with an opportunity to compliment the bankers on the spirit they have shown in helping to restore disturbed financial conditions, but he gave warning that the problems which have arisen from the war should not be attacked so that "the remedies proposed are worse than the disease."

An attractive candy case, containing a variety of candies and chewing gum, has been installed at the Y. M. C. A. for the convenience of members and to provide a fund with which to purchase necessary equipment for the physical department. Formerly when new balls or apparatus for this department was needed it was necessary to either institute a subscription or to secure an appropriation through the red tape method. It is believed that the receipts of the new department will amply pay all expenses of the physical department and allow for the purchase of much new equipment.

VIOLINISTS UNMASKED.

Edison Tells the Secret of How They Strike the Right Note.

Thomas A. Edison, who has an expert knowledge of every known musical instrument, from the oboe to the aeolian harp, was discussing the great violinists of the present age. He spoke with deep feeling. "I have to admit," he declared sadly, "that for a long time those fellows had me completely bewildered. I used to watch them in amazement. Every time one of them shot a finger halfway down the neck of his fiddle and stopped it in exactly the right place for the sounding note I gasped in astonishment. Every time, it seemed, he could stop that finger correctly within one-thousandth of an inch. That's what he had to do in order to make the right note. And I concluded that he and his fellows were in some way superior to all other kinds of people in the matter of judging distances."

"But I know better now. After long and careful observation I have discovered the truth. Those fellows shoot their fingers up and down with an air of great confidence, but they never know exactly where the fingers will stop. Like any other human being, they guess at it. Then just as the note is begun by the scraping of the bow they readjust their fingers. Consequently, although the public doesn't know it, the great violin geniuses of the world fill their work with a lot of notes that start falsely."—Popular Magazine.

A Change That Worked.

Little Alice was writing invitations for her birthday party and had been instructed by her mother to write the sentence "Please bring no presents" at the bottom of each invitation.

The little guests arrived at the appointed time, but each came with a gift for the hostess.

Alice upon being taken to task for having forgotten the sentence said:

"No, mamma; I put in every single letter of that note. I only changed the 'no' the least little bit."

The note read, "Please bring on presents."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A HUMAN MENAGERIE.

Her "lamb" his mother called him when he was a toddler small. His ranky "little monkey" his wee nephew used to call.

He grew up fat and awkward, to the girls "a great big calf."

At college he was "gay young dog." They said it with a laugh.

He entered next the Stock Exchange, and there he was a "bear."

As he was shrewd, one said of him, "A sly fox, I declare!"

Making a coup sensational, a "lion" he became. "A mean skunk" some men said who lost and on him placed the blame.

Later from "bear" he turned to "bull," a foolish step alas! He dropped his entire fortune and was frankly dubbed an "ass."

TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYERS.

Work They Are Supposed to Perform In Time of War.

As the name implies, torpedo boat destroyers were originally built to combat the smaller torpedo boat, which had become such a serious menace to the battleships and the large cruisers that searchlights and rapid fire guns could not be depended upon for protection. Gradually, however, the duties of the destroyer were extended until they included all that was formerly done by the torpedo boat and much besides.

The mere fact that a modern destroyer is three or four times as large as one of the earlier boats renders it so much more seaworthy and capable of carrying so much more fuel that the radius of action of torpedo boat craft has been enormously increased, and they have become more and more dangerous to an enemy's fleet.

The duties of a modern flotilla may be tabulated in this way:

First.—Scouting. This comprises locating and reporting the position of the enemy and keeping in touch with him as long as may be necessary.

Second.—Protection of one's own fleet from night attacks of the enemy's destroyers. This includes not only locating and reporting the position of the hostile torpedo craft, but, if necessary, attacking them with your guns and sinking or driving them away before they can force home an attack against battleships.

Third.—Attacking the battleships of the enemy with your torpedoes. This is, of course, the paramount duty of every vessel in the flotilla.

Fourth.—In addition to the above "regular" duties, destroyers are frequently used in what might be called "gunboat work"—patrolling the enemy's coast, running up his rivers where the big ships cannot go, overtaking and capturing his merchant vessels and firing on troops and field batteries ashore.

START OF A FORTUNE.

The Boy Who Began His Career by Buying Soap at Auction.

A boy eleven years old stood at an auction room door and gazed with interest at the crowd of men gathered round the auctioneer. His curiosity led him to enter the room. His attention was attracted to several boxes of toilet soap, the kind he noticed, that his mother used at home. He had often been sent to the drug store to buy it for her. "Ah," he said to himself, "perhaps I can buy this soap cheap. I will sell it and make some money."

As fast as his feet would carry him he ran to the drug store where his mother traded and sought out the proprietor. "How much would you give me for a box of that soap such as my mother buys?" he asked. The druggist, ready to please the boy, named a certain price. When the youngster asked if he could use several boxes the druggist thought it was a good joke and replied that he could use all that the lad would sell him.

The boy hastened home. He emptied his little savings bank and ran back to the auction rooms with the money carefully wrapped in a handkerchief. The soap was still unsold, and the boy edged his way through the crowd to the platform. When the soap came under the auctioneer's hammer the boy's little piping voice made the first bid. The other buyers were so amused at his youth and his serious manner that they let him carry off his transaction without a contest, and the boy got twenty-two boxes of toilet soap at a small fraction of their value. When the auctioneer asked his name he answered, "Charles Yerkes."

The lad took the boxes of soap to his purchaser, the druggist, who, open-eyed with surprise, inquired where he had got them. "I bought them at the auction," he said proudly.

"I could have done that myself," complained the druggist, but as he had promised to buy the soap he had to keep his word.

That was the beginning of an unusual business career. In later years Charles Yerkes became famous in both England and America as a financier and a conductor of great business enterprises.—Youth's Companion.
